

I'd like to know . . .

One of my favorite podcasts is John Lee Dumas' Entrepreneur on Fire

I woke up this morning to a primary question John Lee Dumas' poses to entrepreneurs and clients: What is your #1 Struggle?

So, what is your #1 struggle at work? As a leader? What do you struggle most with in your profession? What is your #1 struggle that keeps you from getting even better at what you do?

As we move into the new season, I'd like to hear from you. In the Fall, work pressure ramps up, holidays and family commitments become a reality.

I believe once we identify and become honest about a personal or professional struggle, we begin the process of addressing, learning and growing from this challenge.

What's your #1 Struggle?